

Descriptive, and partly circular, because the ClinGen FBN1 rules assign pathogenicity partly on position at these features. It confirms the two features carry the variants and is not evidence of mechanism. No amino-acid substitution can remove a main-chain carbonyl, so that row is a negative control.